Taylor Walton LLP advises chartered surveyors Brasier Harris on its merger with Freeth Melhuish

Taylor Walton LLP, with offices in Luton, Harpenden and St Albans has advised Watford based Brasier Harris on its merger with fellow Hertfordshire-based chartered surveyors Freeth Melhuish. The new company will be known as Brasier Freeth LLP.

Taylor Walton, led by corporate partner Jeremy Brockis (assisted by Lynne Greenaway and Shasta Qayyum, with Keely Rushmore (employment) and Sally Jackson (property)) advised the partners of Brasier Harris. The transaction involved the transfer of the Brasier Harris business to Freeth Melhuish, whereupon the partners of Brasier Harris became members of Brasier Freeth LLP.

The merger of Brasier Harris and Freeth Melhuish brings together two highly successful businesses to offer an improved service across the Southern UK.

Corporate Partner Jeremy Brockis commented:

"This was an interesting transaction given the legal nature of the two merging businesses and the wish of everyone concerned to see reciprocity on all sides. However, all parties worked together to ensure everything proceeded smoothly."
